

Native Excellence Resources

“Creating Excellence in the Native American Community”

Our Mission

Native Excellence Resources has one aim: To give people the skills they need to be effective in life and in work. We teach people how to communicate and function effectively, how to resolve conflicts, how to reach goals by managing time well, and to develop the “people skills” needed for effective living. The final outcome is positive resolutions for you and your associates.

Our Services

Native Excellence Resources offers training and consulting in crucial workplace and life skills. We also offer an in depth assessment of management practices and specially designed programs to meet your needs.

Mr. Alvin “Dobie” Weasel is the principal of Native Excellence Resources headquartered in Omaha, Nebraska. Native Excellence Resources primarily focuses on activities that create excellence in Native American communities. For the past ten years he has been a motivational speaker and uses these communication skills to present and participate in numerous seminars, workshops, and conferences that address creating excellence in Native American communities on the North American continent. He tailors his materials to address very specific community requirements and presents his ideas in a style that has captivated the hearts and minds of both youth and adult audiences in the USA, Canada, and Mexico’s indigenous communities.

What Our Clients Say...
